1946 Wurlitzer Jukebox This model 1015 jukebox was designed by Paul Fuller for the Rudolph Wurlitzer Company of North Tonawanda, New York, and was referred to as the "1015 Bubbler" because of the bubbles that would rise through the tubes on either side. It is one of more than 56,000 of its type that were sold in less than 2 years, making it a pop culture icon of the American 1940s. This jukebox was originally used in Thaxton, Virginia, and can now be seen in the Story of Virginia exhibition. (VMHC Object Number: 1994.75)
